HIGHLIGHTS FROM THE FALLEN FIREFIGHTER MEMORIAL CANDLELIGHT SERVICE (held 10/4/03)

This was a special year for the fire service in that both the Candlelight Service on October 4th and the National Memorial Service on October 5th were broadcast to a potential audience of more than 6 million households throughout the country. Therefore, we are re-airing the highlights of these events to those who may have missed the live broadcasts.

The Candlelight service will feature musical selections by members of the fire service and survivors of fallen firefighters and a video tribute to the fallen heroes of 2002. Fire service honor guard and families will light commemorative candles for the fallen firefighters. Luminaries decorated by the children attending Family Day will be displayed during the ceremony. As the ceremony closes, survivors will light the Remembrance Candle, a symbol of the hope and enduring friendship shared by all who have lost a firefighter.

HIGHLIGHTS FROM THE FALLEN FIREFIGHTER MEMORIAL SERVICE (held 10/5/03)

The National Memorial Service, lead by Homeland Security Secretary Tom Ridge, and other fire service leaders, will remember America's bravest who died in the line of duty in 2002. Thousands of people are expected to attend and celebrate the lives of these American heroes. The ceremony, rich in fire service traditions, will begin with an honor guard and bagpiper salute. Families will receive American flags flown over the Nation's Capitol and the Emmitsburg monument. The tribute will conclude with the unveiling of the memorial plaque listing the names of the fallen heroes of 2002.

2:00PM – 3:00PM
and re-aired
7:00PM – 8:00PM
Eastern Time

CONSEQUENCE MANAGEMENT NEWS, EQUIPMENT, & TRAINING (CoMNET) MAGAZINE (originally aired on 10/22/03)

Featured stories include:

- Developing a Medical Action Plan: CoMNET provides a lead-in to the November 19, 2003 Live Response broadcast, “Protocols for Medical Monitoring of Response Personnel”. CoMNET explains the importance of having a medical action plan to monitor the health of first responders on the scene of a WMD incident. In order for first responders to save lives, their own safety is a priority. Agencies need to know how to develop a medical action plan to protect on-scene emergency responders. After the plan is developed, they should coordinate implementation of the plan with the emergency medical manager and on-scene incident commander.
- Mass Fatality Management and Decontamination: CoMNET takes a look at the Disaster Mortuary Operational Response Team (DMORT)-WMD Team, a specialized unit whose function is the decontamination of human remains and joins them for a specialized training session. The DMORT-WMD Team is the only team of its kind and members assembled from all over the country to take part in this important event.
- Homeland Security Leadership Development Master’s Program: The Homeland Security master’s program at the Naval Postgraduate School is the first of its kind in the United States. CoMNET explores the fully accredited Masters Degree program, taught through a combination of brief, intensive, in-residence seminars and web-based distributed learning. The program will provide for leadership development through curricula, that has been structured to support and compliment other Homeland Security training, education and exercise activities sponsored by the Office for Domestic Preparedness.
